TO VISIT BEFORE YOU DIE BECAUSE
The liquid chef uses the most advanced techniques and equipment for his presentations and mixes.

The exceptional atmosphere in Volker Seibert's bar in Cologne is more like that of a majestic hotel than of a place where drinks are served. Volker Seibert is one of the world's best mixologists. He ran Cologne's Capri Lounge for 15 years until he opened his own bar in 2014. Visitors to Seibert's Classic Bar & Liquid Kitchen are spoiled by lots of attention to detail. The decor immediately reminds you of the 1920s. The big chandeliers, heavy curtains and Chesterfield sofas give the interior its particular look. The focal point is the custom-made bar counter that makes patrons want to hang around for far too long. The fantastic wine menu is worth mentioning, but what really makes Seibert's Bar so unique is the cocktails. No one combines old-school cocktails and new creations with the latest bar trends like Seibert. With his great experience of the tastes, aromas and possibilities of distilled beverages, he very aptly calls his bar a liquid kitchen. You can safely refer to it as food pairing with cocktails, a craft that Seibert masters down to the last detail. There is even a Volker's Tea Time, a cocktail workshop taught by the master himself. If you want to enrol, be quick about it, though, because the workshops are fully booked months in advance.
